-live, laugh, learn...

Newsletter #4 - 2011

Welcome!

Last one for the year and at the expense of sounding like a broken record- wwwwhhwhere does time fly? Here I am madly packing and heading off to Ghana to start our new year with a roll, plans for A French Meander are well underway, Dijanne has sent a few tantalizing images to wet the taste buds...

Noticing the speed that life seems to flow at really reminds me to make sure I spend a few moments to notice beauty; no matter how fleeting, take a second to appreciate the little, tiny joys and pleasures Life offers us continuously. Those fleeting moments also seem to help slow it all down a little, as well, creating small islands of 'now' and being 'here'. That is existence isn't it? Being here, now?

And always just the right place to be.

May 2012 bring you joy and growth and adventure,

Love

Fiona, Praveen and the Creative Arts Team

A French Meander 2013

Ohh lala French streetscapes- catch my breath every time....

Rajasthan- a Tactile Textile Tour 2011

A great crowd, lots of fun and laughter....what more can you ask for when travelling through our beautiful India...good monsoon meant much of it was so green to our eyes as well so local people should have a good year.

All excited we are just heading out the door,

Pictures coming soon, watch our blog.

Our friends in Syria

Not a day goes by when I don't anxiously open the paper here to see if there is a latest update.... unrest and unclear as to what is really happening. I have phoned some of our friends, everyone is fine but also non-committal in their answers. Perhaps that means for the average person it is not so bad- just keep your head down and perhaps it means it is back to the time of Bashier's father when Secret Police monitored everything and so people can't speak.

I hope and pray for a quick and positive resolution for the gentle people of a friendly country.
